Judge Sharswood on Legal Tenders—Extract from His Opinion in the Case of Borie vs. Trott:

"On the whole, then, I am of the opinion that the provision of the act of Congress of February 26th, 1862, declaring the notes issued in pursuance of that act to be lawful money, and a legal tender, IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

"This renders it necessary that I should consider the other question which has been made, as to the effect of the special agreement to pay in lawful silver money of the United States. I am in favor of entering judgment for the plaintiff, but as a majority of the court are of a different opinion, judgment for the defendant."—Copied from the Philadelphia Age of February, 1864, where the opinion is published in full.

In the same copy of the Age is a carefully prepared eulogy of the Judge and his opinion, in which is the following:

"Judge Sharswood reasons upon and decides the case as if he were some lofty spirit sitting far above and out of the contentions and strifes of the world."

Will not the holders of greenbacks and Government bonds consider the Judge as quite too elevated and ethereal for such earthly honors as a seat on the Supreme Bench?

PARTIES who have recently canvassed the county express the opinion that Mr. WILLIAMS will receive a full vote, as much interest is manifested in the coming election. Our candidate is deservedly popular with the masses, and will receive a handsome complimentary vote outside of his own party lines, as many honest Democrats are anxious that he shall succeed Mr. WOODWARD. But few political demonstrations have yet been held in the western section of the State, but the Republicans are quietly working and have already accomplished much good. The Democrats here have not even held a ratification meeting, and evince much less spirit in this campaign than any heretofore, seeming to have no heart to enter into the contest against Mr. WILLIAMS.

THE Erie Dispatch is still after Morrow B. Lowry. It says:

The question arises, whether the honest Republicans of Erie county propose to do the work which is necessary to defeat for the Senate whom they pretend so much to despise. If they have not concluded to do this, they can be represented by him for their hearts' content. They can continue to deprecate his existence, and blush when his name is mentioned in connection with the result of the elections of this county. But if they have resolved to do this work really and earnestly, they will not find him so formidable as he and his friends boast, and they can select a person whom Crawford county will endorse far more strongly and cheerfully than they endorse him. And if this is not done we will begin to think that the boasted pride and dignity of the Republican party in Erie county is a miserable pretense, and that the people do not deserve to be represented by a better man than M. B. Lowry.

◆

THE PRESIDENT cannot face public opinion by relieving General Sheridan for any of his official acts tending to successful reconstruction, but gives out that his removal will be based on no other reasons than insubordination and disrespect towards the Chief Executive. If Sheridan must suffer for an offense so common in the country as disrespect for the President, he will be consoled by knowing that he is in plenty of good company, so far as Mr. Johnson has forfeited the respect of all right minded citizens.

◆

THE HEALTH of our esteemed fellow citizen, R. W. Mackey, Esq., Cashier of the Allegheny National Bank, which has been seriously impaired of late, we are glad to learn is much improved, and the gentleman may be regarded as entirely out of danger. Few persons in this end of the State possess more genuine friends than Mr. Mackey, and the intelligence of his final recovery will be hailed with much pleasure by all with whom he is acquainted.

◆

THE ARRIVAL of Fenian President Roberts from Europe is announced. The story of his having secured promised aid from Garibaldi, Victor Emanuel, Napoleon and others to help on the cause of Ireland in "certain contingencies," has been contradicted by the Fenian authorities.

◆

THE Press, a new Republican organ, has made its appearance in Butler, Pa. It is edited by Mr. William Haslett, and the first copy presents quite a handsome appearance. It is to be hoped that the enterprise will meet with success.

LOPEZ has been assassinated in Mexico. He deserved no better fate, and has met but a just reward for his betrayal of Maximilian. Of all crimes treachery is the one most universally condemned.

SECRETARY STANTON is on his way to the White Mountains, for a brief season of pleasure and recuperation.

THE COLORADO RIVER was recently very high, and considerable damage was done to Arizona City.

THE body of the lamented Postmaster of Chicago, Col. Gilmore, has been recovered.

A Bold Woman—Outrageous Attempt at Burglary by Four Men—A Woman Shoots One and Splits the Skull of Another.

The Stratford, Canada, Herald says:

A startling rumor prevailed in Stratford to the effect that three men had been killed by a woman in the township of Elma. On making inquiries, we learned from Chief Constable Harrison the following facts, as given by Messrs. Moore and Dood, constables from Elma:

A woman named Gibson, living near Towbridge, had lately received a sum of money from her husband, who resides in the States. This, of course, became noised abroad among the neighbors. On Saturday evening last four men entered the house in her absence, but were unable to find anything. In the evening the same parties came again; this time Mrs. Gibson was at home. On their demanding admission she refused, as the children had told her of the previous occurrence.

They then attempted to force their way in. Mrs. Gibson warned them to desist, at the same time threatening to shoot; but they still persisted, when she fired the gun and shot the foremost in the face; the others withdrew for a while with their companion, but shortly returned to the house, and burst the window open. The brave woman seized an ax and buried it in the skull of the man who was attempting to climb through the window. The other two immediately decamped, taking their wounded companions with them.

The alarm was not given till morning, when the neighbors turned out and followed the tracks, which were easily distinguished by the pools of blood which lay along the road; but it was found the parties had got into a conveyance and drove off. Up to going to press we have not learned that any were captured. It is almost certain that one of the ruffians was killed, and the one that was shot must have been severely wounded, as the woman saw them carry him away before returning to their second attack.

—Le Monde relates an extraordinary fact tending to prove an influence of the cholera upon the mental faculties. A workingman, well advanced in years, had a violent attack of cholera in 1865. Up to that moment he had never manifested any literary ability, but after his recovery he commenced to write poetry, and has already published quite a volume of poems.

J., received a severe cowhining at the hands of an irate husband a few evenings since, for having sent an anonymous note asking an interview of the wife of the castigator at a rendezvous on Clinton avenue. —At a recent meeting of the London Aeronautical Society, five new schemes for flying were introduced. Three of these were on paper and two more in models. The London papers say, however, that it "does not appear that any plan has so far been put to the test as to enable its promoter to flutter about his garden and light on the wall-tops."

—Burns, at a public entertainment, was seated opposite a young foppish nobleman, who, to evince his contempt for one who he regarded as a literary upstart, fillipped some of his wine in the direction of the poet. —It is said that the Indians on the Plains have an ingenious way of setting fire to houses with their arrows. They wrap with a rag some powder on the heads of their arrows, and on the tip of their arrow-head place a percussion cap. —There is not in the whole of Switzerland a toll gate. The government forbids by law anything which may tend to interrupt or interfere with travel in or between the different cantons. The magnificent public roads, which one finds everywhere throughout the country, are kept in order at the expense of the cantons through which they run—the federal authorities having each paid, however, at the construction, one-half of the expense.

—Change sometimes makes confusion. The Reformed Dutch Church, of this country, is about to drop the name "Dutch" from its title; and the German Reformed Church of this country is also about to drop the word "German" from its title. Both are large and influential bodies.

The Mississippi River.

The Mississippi river is developing a new wonder, in view of which it has been suggested that at almost any moment the stream disappears in a mysterious watery abyss below. At Memphis unmistakable signs exist of an underground channel, and facts are related going to show that constant and remarkable changes are going on. Many years ago a saw mill was at work in the swamps of Arkansas, twenty miles from the Mississippi. The owner awoke one bright morning to find his well dry, in which the day before there was three or four feet of water. He cut a trench to a broad, long surface pond, not far away, and was again supplied with an abundance of water. This trench connected the pond and well. Three days elapsed and pond and well were both empty. The old man of the mill was amazed. The story was told to a traveler from Memphis. "It is plain enough," said he, "the river is lower than for years past, and your well and pond have emptied themselves into the great sewer of the Continent." The Mississippi not only overflows, but "underflows" all the broad valley through which it passes. Its channel, however broad and deep, could not contain all the rains that fall and streams that come down from the Mountains, Territories and States of America.

A State with Two Capitals.

Connecticut is the only State which enjoys the anomaly of two capitals. Had it the territorial dimensions of New York, there might be some excuse for retaining an absurdity, the original reasons for the existence of which have long since vanished. As it is, the honors of the State capital alternate between Hartford and New Haven. Whatever of interest may attach to a State capital is lost, while the State cannot afford the proper outlay for erecting and maintaining suitable State buildings.

One of the Connecticut papers complains that "both State houses are old, dirty, dilapidated pens, hardly fit for pigs, with no suitable accommodations for committees, and hardly enough room for members." It adds that "they are a disgrace to the State, and the people of Hartford and New Haven are ashamed of them;" and complaining that the citizens of the semi-capitals "act as though it was a purely local question," and that "through their senseless rivalries and jealousies the rest of the State must suffer." There are people enough in Connecticut to settle this question, even if both the capitals were left out in the selection of a new state.

—Fifteen barrels of porgies make one of oil. The oil is shipped to Boston, where the refiners work wonders with it. Probably some of it comes back as pure linseed to paint our houses; some as Macassar for ladies' hair, or perhaps as pure olive oil to dress our salads. The achievements of chemistry are very wonderful, and we can't be very certain what we eat, drink or wear was in its original form. What is left of fish, after the oil is pressed out, is called "chum," and sells for $15 per ton. One firm in Baltimore last year bought six thousand tons of chum on the Maine coast.

—Disease is simply obstruction. The man who can touch the bottom of his lung with a bit of fresh air, and the end of his toe with a little blood, may laugh at the doctor and break off acquaintance with the undertaker. He is sure of getting into the nineties.

The case of the United States vs. Alfred Myers, indicted for counterfeiting, was resumed at ten o'clock Wednesday.

FURTHER REBUTTING EVIDENCE.

Charles F. Highberger, re-called—In November or December last resigned as Justice of the Peace at Pithole. Had the man Boles, sworn as a witness in this case, before me. He was not discharged, but went away without authority. He was charged before me with passing counterfeit money.

Cross-examined—Received a note, written by Boles' wife, instructing me to give the bearer a pistol that I retained in my possession.

E. M. Judson, sworn—Live at Waterford, Erie; know S. B. Benson and Charles Johnson. Was present at an interview last July, between the man Boles and Johnson. In the conversation, heard him state that he got some counterfeit money from George Short; told me he would make his affidavit to the fact, and expressed his willingness to go to Petroleum Centre and be qualified.

Capt. S. B. Benson, sworn—Was present at the proceedings before the U. S. Commissioner against Alfred Myers, at Erie, on the 17th of July. Myers was arrested on an information made by Charles Craker, who was not present at the hearing before the Commissioner. Have not been able to find Craker since. Wm. Harman was also summoned as a witness, but was not present. Charles Johnston was present as a witness. I. A. Pierce, Esq., (present here now,) and Col. Curtis, of Erie, conducted the case for the defense. Saw Col. Burr there, but did not observe him take any part as counsel. I pettifogged the case for the Government. It is not usual for the Government to develop their whole case at the examination before a Commissioner. Mr. Pierce asked me where De Haven was; did not tell him. De Haven was in Akron, Ohio, and I wrote to him to come to this Court. He was to appear in the case against Charles Johnston. The evidence before the Commissioner was in relation to a twenty dollar bill alleged to have been passed by Myers.

By Judge Shannon—Was De Haven summoned in this case against Myers? Answer—No, sir. Don't know that he was subpoenaed in either of the cases. I wrote to him generally to come.

Mr. Carnahan—The witnesses in Erie were all recognized to appear at this term.

John McKay, sworn—Am acquainted with William Harman, who testified here yesterday. He told me he was going to get some money at Petroleum Center to "light out" of the country and not appear against Myers at Erie; he said he got fifteen dollars from Myers' barkeeper. Saw Myers and Harman together.

Elisha Ellison, sworn—Had a conversation with Charles Hewitt, in Titusville, in reference to the arrest of Myers, after the hearing at Erie. Saw Hewitt at the railroad station in Titusville. He asked me if I had heard the evidence against Myers, given by Charley Johnston; said I had not, and asked him what it was; he said Johnston swore pretty hard against Myers—that he saw him sell fifty dollars in counterfeit money. Said he would be sorry to see Johnston get into any further trouble.

Cross-examined—I am the bail for Johnston, for his appearance for trial.

Charles S. Johnston recalled to contradict Hewitt. Objected to, and the Court ruled that witness could not be called for such purpose.

OFFER OVERRULED.

The rebutting evidence having closed, Mr. Richmond desired to call a witness in relation to the contradiction between Mr. Perrine and Mr. Pierce. Mr. Richmond proposed to call a witness to contradict Mr. Perrine. Mr. Carnahan objected. He could not see upon what principle the evidence was offered.

The Court—The offer is overruled. We'll hear no more of it.

[The defense proposed to prove by F. O. Carter, "detective," that Mr. Perrine said on the train coming to the city something about "putting up a case" against Mr. Pierce.]

SPEECH OF MR. PERRINE.

Mr. Perrine, for the Government, first addressed the jury. He reviewed the evidence. The witness Johnston had testified that he saw Myers, the defendant, in August last, sell fifty dollars in counterfeit money, for thirty-five cents on the dollar, receiving good money in exchange. Another witness, Henry Burke, testified that Myers came to his place with a man from Syracuse, New York, and disposed of counterfeit money. An attempt had been made to impeach the testimony of Johnston. Who by? By Charley Hewitt, whom the Government had shown was unworthy of belief. This man Hewitt was the one who conveyed to Mr. Burr, the intelligence of the arrest of his friend Myers. It was thus that Mr. Burr, Aaron Burr, (not the Aaron Burr of old) learned of the trouble of Myers, and he hastened to his relief.

Col. Burr (interrupting)—Not Aaron Burr, but Allen L. Burr.

Mr. Perrine—So much the better. This man Allen L. Burr, Col. Burr, who had filled every position in the army from a private to a Brigadier General, learned of the arrest of Myers from Hewitt. If the records of the Adjutant General's office were examined, I venture to say it would be found that this Colonel, Brigadier General Burr, had been discharged for cowardice. [Sensation, Col. Burr rising to his feet.]

The Court—Mr. Perrine, you must confine yourself to matters in the case.

Mr. Richmond (to Col. Burr in an undertone)—Let him proceed. Our time will come.

Mr. Perrine proceeded to discuss at length the testimony given by Johnston, and the attempts made to discredit it, by showing that the inducement he had was to get Myers in the penitentiary in order that he (Johnson) might escape. Mr. P. contended that the jury must believe Johnston. He had no other inducement but to tell the truth. The only inducement controlling the witness Burke, whose testimony was equally important, was the subpoena of the United States Court. None other had been shown.

SPEECH OF MR. RICHMOND.

Mr. Richmond followed, for the defense. After a few general remarks, as to the responsibility of the jury, he said he would argue the case candidly, and in a gentlemanly manner, not assailing the private reputation of men without just cause or provocation. If he could not practice law without so doing, he would leave the bar. The presumption was that the defendant was innocent, and if the jury entertained a single reasonable doubt of his guilt, they were bound to acquit, no matter how strong the suspicions entertained. The defendant was surrounded by suspicious circumstances, but he (the counsel) could not in his heart believe him guilty. The evidence was not of that positive character to exclude every probable hypothesis of innocence, and under the rule of law the jury were bound to give the defendant the benefit of every doubt. The weight of evidence was with the jury, and they were to judge of the credibility of the witnesses, rejecting all the testimony of such as may have been contradicted in material matters. Now as to the evidence. The defendant took his seat as an innocent man, and it had been proven affirmatively by his neighbors that his reputation for honesty was not questioned. Good character, however, would weigh nothing against positive evidence of guilt. Three witnesses were produced by the Government. First, a man who has been and is likely to be again on his trial in this Court for felony. This man was Charles Johnston. What motive had he for testifying. Hewitt had testified that Johnston told him that if he (Johnston) convicted Myers it would benefit him (Johnston). What motive had Hewitt for making this statement? How far the fact that an indictment was hanging over his head may have influenced Johnson to prevaricate, the jury would judge. His evidence was directed against a man (the defendant) whose character stood good with his neighbors. Weigh the witnesses in the balance, and judge of them from all the circumstances. The next witness was Burke, known as a thief. His reputation for truth had not been attacked, for the reason that he had not arrived to the dignity of a common liar; yet he was known as a common sneak thief. Must the Government, in the necessity of the case, rely upon thieves, scoundrels and liars for conviction? Will it be so argued? It is better for society that a man should be acquitted, than that a conviction should be obtained upon the evidence of such men.

Very many side issues had crept into the trial, which might have something to do in determining the case. On the first day they tried Myers, the defendant. On the second day they had tried Mr. Pierce, his counsel. It will be urged by the Government that bribery has been resorted to, the witnesses tampered with, in order to obtain a verdict of acquittal. This charge was made under oath, and denied under oath. The jury would decide. The jury, however, should not hold the defendant responsible for the acts of his counsel. The man De Haven, who appeared as a witness against Johnston at Erie, had testified that Mr. Pierce had endeavored to persuade him to swear contrary to the truth. What could have been the motive of Mr. Pierce in endeavoring to buy De Haven to testify? To what had he testified? Why, that on a single occasion he saw Myers, at Johnston's house, dispose of some counterfeit money. De Haven would have it that he was to swear that Myers was not the man he saw at Johnston's. It was for this that Mr. Pierce was to give the price De Haven stated. If Pierce did so stupid an act, after the exhibition De Haven made at Erie, he (Pierce) should be stricken from the roll of attornies for stupidity. But De Haven had lied. He (Mr. Richmond) knew that he lied. He had lied at Erie, and he had lied at the St. Charles Hotel, where he called upon the speaker. There he sought an introduction to the counsel, (Mr. Richmond,) and spoke of the Erie case. Referring to this Mr. R. spoke of the narrow escape he had made from falling into the trap laid by the man De Haven. He was introduced, entered into conversation, and had he asked for money Mr. R. said he would not have hesitated to give it to him, expecting the amount to be returned by his client, upon stating that he had given it to one of his witnesses who was out of money. De Haven came for the same purpose that he went to Pierce. Had he (Mr. R.) given De Haven a five dollar bill what would have been the result? Why, on the next morning an envelope, containing a marked five dollar bill, would have been produced, like Banquo's ghost, and on the evidence of a thief from Pithole city he (Mr. Richmond) would have been arraigned for bribery. His esteemed friend, the District Attorney, might not have believed him guilty, and the courtesy and kind consideration with which he had been treated by His Honor upon the bench might have induced the belief that a like opinion would have been entertained by him. But he shuddered when he thought of the narrow escape he had made. The witnesses, thieves and liars as they had been shown to be, were mostly from Pithole. In connection with the alleged bribery another witness had been produced. Mr. Perrine, a lawyer, whose office was in Pithole. This Mr. Perrine had most unwarrantably attacked Col. Burr, a high-minded and honorable gentleman, and an important witness for the defense. Courtesy to the Court alone had prevented the maligner from being stricken down in his tracks. He had said that Col. Burr, who had advanced step by step through the various army grades, had been cashiered for cowardice. Was there ever a more cowardly attack? There had been thieves, liars, counterfeiters and Squires from Pithole, and we have also a lawyer. Charley Johnston and the thief Burke are from Pithole. Mr. Perrine, the lawyer, is from Pithole, and is the counsel of Charley Johnston. Mr. Perrine allowed himself to be called as a witness at a time when he knew he could not be contradicted, owing to the point to which the case had proceeded. They were prepared, and had offered to contradict him. Mr. Richmond said that so far he had not gone outside of the case in his argument, and would not. Were he so disposed he might attack the character of the lawyer from Pithole. He might say that he had once been a clown in a circus; and he did not know but what it was the case.

The Court interrupted Mr. Richmond, saying he should not refer to outside matters. It might be an honor, however, to be as wise a man as Dan Rice.

Mr. Richmond—It is easier for a wise man to act the part of a fool, than for a fool to be a sage.

In the course of his argument Mr. Richmond said he knew the boy Ira H. Pierce, knew him as a man. He did not believe the charge made against him. From the source it came, the jury could not believe it. He closed his speech in a few eloquent words concerning his client, whom he believed to be the victim of a conspiracy and innocent of the charge preferred against him, sustained only by scums from the purlieus of Pithole.

SPEECH OF JUDGE SHANNON.

Hon. P. C. Shannon next addressed the jury, on behalf of the defense. He dwelt with much force upon the fact that the defendant had produced witnesses to establish his character for honesty, whilst not a single one had appeared to gainsay it, save the three—Johnston, Burke and De Haven—who were blackened all over with infamy. But for this exception, the character of the defendant stood as high as the highest. Charley Johnston was tried for felony in Erie, in July last. The jury failed to agree, and he was held in recognizance to undergo another trial. At Erie, after his trial, he was examined in the case of Myers before the U. S. Commissioner, and there he saw his opportunity. By making a victim of Myers he would expect the Government to protect him. Thus, with the sword of Damocles over his head, he appears and testifies against Myers, feeling that in thus doing his ultimate safety is insured. There could be no doubt of this. Myers convicted on Johnson's testimony, wherein Johnson impliedly confesses his own guilt, it is not unreasonable to infer that he expected benefit would accrue to him on his second trial. Even in case of conviction, he could hope for clemency. But Johnson, it had been shown, had differed in his statements—telling a story here upon the trial of Myers different from that he told at the examination before the Commissioner at Erie. This was shown by Colonel Burr, called as a witness for the defense. At this point Judge Shannon took occasion to refer to Colonel Burr's military reputation, upon which a cowardly attack had been made. He said Colonel B. was abundantly able to defend himself from the unjust and slanderous imputation. In his own neighborhood, among his neighbors, who knew him best, he required no defense. Judge Shannon next referred to the witness Burke, designating him as one of the "flock of villains" from Pit*hole*, a locality, judging from what he had seen and heard, more than any other that he knew of stood in need of regenerating its morals. The "thief Burke," no less infamous than Charley Johnson, was relied upon to convict Myers, the defendant, proved by his neighbors to be an honest man. Burke was a thief, known as such, and his reputation for truth and veracity was bad. Johnston told Bolles, of Eagle Rock, that he was "in a hell of a scrape," and that his salvation depended upon the conviction of Myers, to accomplish which he would "resort to any means." The witness De Haven, to whom so much importance was seemingly attached, came next in order. To what had he sworn? Simply that he boarded at Johnston's, at Pithole, and saw there, in August last, Myers, the defendant. This and nothing more. He did not see Myers have in his possession or cell counterfeit money. He saw him on a certain day in August, talking with another man in Johnston's bar-room. What had this to do with the case? Nothing. And yet De Haven was bribed, or an attempt had been made to bribe him. Judge S. thought he saw the importance of the isolated fact testified to by De Haven. Drowning men catch at straws. Johnston testified that Myers was at his house and to what there took place, but when asked about himself, he declined to answer. For what reason would be inferred. It was necessary for Johnston to support himself, and his auxiliaries were Burke, the thief, and De Haven, the unbribable. Burke had performed his part, as also had De Haven—the former swearing to a circumstance distinct from that given by Johnston, but answering the purpose, and the latter corroborating Johnston by swearing that Myers was in Pithole, at Johnston's tavern, one day in August, 1866, after he had repeatedly said that Myers, the defendant, was not the man he saw there, pointing out wherein the difference in appearance existed. De Haven was a miserable, diabolical scoundrel, whose path seemed to be that of the anaconda. Yet Mr. Pierce, an honorable young gentleman, had been obliged to defend himself against the vile wretch. The rascal knew nothing, and why should he be bribed. Has it come to this, that the reputation of an honest, warm-hearted, genial young man, a member of the bar, must have his character, all his bright hopes for the future, blasted by a perjured villain! Judge S. said he thus characterized the witness De Haven, for the reason that Mr. Richmond, one of the counsel, had testified that such was his character, as shown at Erie, in the trial of Johnston. De Haven was the principal witness against Johnston, and Mr. Perrine, as counsel for Johnston, had called witnesses, some twenty-eight, to prove that De Haven's character for truth and veracity was bad. Yet Mr. Perrine is now here prosecuting Myers, and bolstering up the character of the witness, De Haven. It was admitted, now, that De Haven had not been summoned by the Government to testify. On Tuesday of last week he was summoned for the defense, his name having been written in a subpoena. He was then a witness for the defense. On Sunday last he went to the room of Mr. Pierce, at the St. Charles hotel, said he had worn a shirt all week, and wanted money to buy another one. Mr. Pierce offered him a shirt, but he would not take it. Mr. Pierce then gave him five dollars. De Haven next goes to Myers, represented that he had no money. Mark the lie! He had just left Mr. Pierce's room. He obtains five dollars from Myers for camp meeting expenses. Now mark the scheme, or conspiracy. It was on Sunday. He did not buy a shirt, He did not go to camp meeting. The money, two five dollar bills, is marked, placed in an envelope, handed to Mr. Carnahan, the District Attorney, and on Monday morning, in the Court room, it is produced as evidence of bribery. Did not the conspiracy seem obvious? would the success of such a scheme to damnify the character of Mr. Pierce be permitted. But the conspiracy did not stop here. Finding that the miserable De Haven was likely to fail in his scheme, Mr. Perrine, assisting the Government in the prosecution, steps in at the last moment, when all chance of contradiction is cut off, and raises a question of veracity between Mr. Pierce and himself, as bearing upon the alleged bribery. Whatever the purpose of Mr. Perrine (the counsel and friend of Charley Johnston,) might be, in thus going upon the witness stand, Alfred Myers, the defendant, should not be made suffer, as he was not present and had nothing to do with the talk between the two lawyers. Mr. Pierce's oath was quite as good as Mr. Perrine's, and it was not for the speaker to say which he would believe. The matter had nothing whatever to do with the case, and what Mr. Perrine had said was in no way corroborative of De Haven's statement.

Judge S. closed by stating that he believed the defendant Myers was the victim of a most damnable, wicked and foul conspiracy. He appealed to the jury not to convict upon the evidence which had been offered. The Government did not demand it. He knew the zeal of detectives, and knew they were a very necessary evil. But in all their activity in tracing the defendant from post to pillar, they had only been able to produce upon the witness stand thieves and liars.

SPEECH OF MR. CARNAHAN.

R. B. Carnahan, Esq., United States District Attorney, followed. He was wearied with the case, had no doubt the jury were, and also the Court. The case was an extraordinary one in some respects. The evidence bearing upon the real issue was in a very narrow compass, although there were some outside issues, and evidence adduced seemingly irrelevant. The law of the case had not been referred to in the long and able arguments which had been made. He proposed to advert to the landmarks. He read from the acts of Congress authorizing the issue of fractional currency and providing for the punishment of those who counterfeited the same. It was made an offense for persons to have in their possession counterfeit national currency, either for the purpose of passing or for selling it as counterfeit, and to constitute the offense it was necessary to show intention to defraud. The essence of the crime of passing counterfeit money was falsehood. The fraud upon the public was not the worst feature, although bad enough, for the reason that the poor are generally made the victims. The crime tends to break down the obligations which hold society together. Perjury, bribery, anything that money will procure, follows it. Perjury, in the sanctuary of justice, from the obligation of one brother to exculpate another, is worse than the mere crime of counterfeiting, and is one of its fruits. Counterfeiters, as a class, are not generally known, and they are constituted like the various gradations of a lodge. Away up high is the man who makes the money. Another is a "dealer," who would not defraud an acquaintance or a friend, but who buys to sell to customers, and deals in counterfeit money as a sort of merchandize. Then we have the retail dealer, and this is considered the most dangerous position. He is generally a saloon or tavern keeper, but may pass very little, if any of the counterfeit money over his bar. Some of his "customers" may get into trouble, and, in the language of the fraternity, may "squeal." For this reason his position is dangerous. Then comes what are called the "shovers," generally traveling thieves, and women are also employed in passing counterfeit money. If any one happens to get into trouble, and he is an important man, he must be saved. The Penitentiary is not a safe place, as there, in his solitude, he may be given to reflection, and his confederates in crime outside might not be safe should he conclude to repent and confess his crimes. The best talent that money will obtain is secured. Bribery and perjury are brought to bear. Nothing is left undone by the "fraternity" to secure the release of an important member, knowing well that their safety depends upon his being prevented from consignment to the solitude of the Penitentiary.

Mr. Carnahan ceased speaking at three o'clock, the hour for adjournment. He will resume his argument at ten o'clock to-day.

Brown and Hamill Sculling Match—Articles of Agreement.

Mr. James Hamill, who went to New York on Friday last, for the purpose of completing arrangements with Walter Brown, who has accepted his challenge to a sculling match for the championship of American waters, returned yesterday morning, having been successful, as the following, which we take from the New York Clipper, will show:

In our last issue we announced the acceptance of Hamill's propositions by Walter Brown, and intimated the likelihood of another match being consummated between these famous oarsmen, the representative pullers of Pennsylvania and Maine, and the two most prominent exponents of the short and long stroke on our waters. This week we have the pleasure of announcing the verification of our predictions, and laying before our readers the articles of agreement, entered into in this city, on Monday, the 12th instant, Hamill having come all the way from the City of Smoke, to make the arrangements. Charles B. Elliott, of Greenpoint, L. I., represented Brown at the meeting, while Denny Leary acted for Jimmy. The result of the last race between these men caused more dissatisfaction and excitement in rowing circles throughout the country than any similar match that ever took place here, and will have the effect of investing the present match with much more than ordinary interest. We subjoin the

A Pittsburgh Forger Arrested.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says: On Saturday last we published an account of the presentation of a forged check on the Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, at one of our banks, for the purpose of having it cashed, and added an extract from a letter from the cashier of the Pittsburgh Bank, stating that a number of similar checks had been sent to that institution for payment; that they were signed by Thomas Rankin; also, that several had been drawn in favor of Baltimore merchants, by "Michael Kilrain," and that "Rankin" and "Kilrain" were supposed to be one person.

Yesterday an individual stopping at one of our hotels was seen reading our article in Saturday's Telegraph, and immediately lay down the paper and walk away. He was suspected of being the guilty one, and information was conveyed to the Mayor's office. The officers were placed on his track, and to-day officer Campbell succeeded in arresting him in the lower end of town. When brought before Mayor Edwards he was very anxious to learn the nature of the charge against him. His Honor, however, did not give him the desired information, but repeatedly asked him his name. Finally he stated that his name was Michael Kilrain. He was then informed of the charge against him, but denied positively that he knew anything in reference to the bogus check. Mr. J. C. Bomberger, cashier of the Mechanics' Bank (who had previously been sent for), was called, who at once identified the prisoner as the man who had presented a check to him to be cashed, last week, and at the same time exhibited the forged paper, which read as follows:

$230. HARRISBURG, Aug. 7, 1867.
Second National Bank, Pittsburgh:
Pay J. C. Bomberger, Esq., or order, Two Hundred Dollars. THOMAS RANKIN.

When this check was shown, Kilrain shook worse than if he had the ague. He stated that if he had written the signature of "Thomas Rankin" he did it in a mistake.

After hearing the case, Mayor Edwards committed Kilrain to prison, in default of five thousand dollars bail, for a further hearing.

A Gentleman Blind for Two Years—Sight Restored Within Two Weeks.

DR. ABORN, No. 134 Smithfield street:

DEAR SIR: For the benefit of all persons suffering from diseases of the eye, I beg leave to hand you the following sworn statement of facts bearing upon my case, and trust you may give it the publicity it deserves, as it may prove of vast service to many who are now suffering as I have done:

Last July two years, my eyes became diseased from granulated lids, which produced a painful disease of the cornea, and totally destroyed the sight of my left eye, and was fast weakening and destroying the vision of the right one. I could hardly see to walk, and suffered the most excruciating torment and pain. In vain hope of cure I visited Philadelphia, and placed myself under the care of the distinguished surgeons in charge of the Philadelphia Eye and Ear Hospital, where I remained, at a cost of some four hundred dollars, for the period of several months. The treatment received previously was terribly severe, subjecting my eyes to scarification, blistering, and other painful inflictions, and at the Hospital, although the system was mild, it failed to have any beneficial effect towards curing me. I also underwent very severe treatment at the hands of amateur surgeons, each of whom had different applications and eye waters to recommend, till despairing of ever being cured I had lost all hope of ever being able again to see. Being referred to Dr. Aborn, by a gentleman under his treatment, I resolved to place myself under his charge. Two weeks ago I visited his office, made known my case and received his treatment, which was mild to an extreme degree. To-day my eyes are fully restored to usefulness. I have regained my sight and can see to read type of the smallest character without difficulty. The return of the vision is complete and was accomplished in but two weeks time; and while duly thankful to Dr. Aborn, I cheerfully recommend him to all persons suffering with diseases of the eye.

Alderman.

Stole a Pittsburgh Letter.

At Indianapolis, on Saturday evening, Daniel Gorman, an Irishman, and porter at the Post Office, was caught in the act of robbing the mail. Suspicion had been attached to Gorman for several days, and a strict watch was kept on him. On Saturday evening Chief Clerk Russell lay down upon the floor and covered himself over with a pile of mail bags, leaving a small hole to breathe and see out of. The situation was a terrible one. The perspiration rolled off him in a perfect stream, and at times it seemed as if he would suffocate. His perseverance was finally rewarded by seeing the robber go to the New York box and run over a package of letters, feeling them to see if they contained money, from which he selected two. Having opened them, he went to the Pittsburgh box and took out a letter directed to Singer, Nimick & Co., Pittsburgh, mailed at Quincy, Ill., which he opened, and out of which he took a draft for four hundred and seventy-six dollars. While the robber was reading the draft Russell emerged from his hiding place and came up behind. He slapped the criminal on the shoulder with the exclamation, "Come, Dan, that's played out." Gorman turned deathly pale, and begged Russell to say nothing about it. He confessed that he had been at it for some time, and claimed that he had been persuaded to it by another party, whose name he refused to give. Mr. Russell called the other clerks, and they escorted Gorman up to the United States Marshal's room. United States Commissioner Davis was sent for, who held an examination into the charge, and fixed Gorman's bail at two thousand dollars. Being unable to give it, he was sent to jail.

Tired of Life.

James M'Cabe, an old man, residing some distance from the city up the Monongahela river, attempted to end his existance by drowning himself yesterday morning. It appears that he has been rather intemperate of late, and this morning, while laboring under mental aberration, he rushed into the Monongahela river, a short distance above the bridge, and attempted to put an end to his existence. He was rescued by some parties working in the vicinity, and conveyed to a dry place on the wharf. He appeared well satisfied with the efforts exerted in his behalf, and coolly took out his pipe, lighted it, and commenced smoking. About half an hour later he suddenly jumped up from his seat, and rushing down to the river, again jumped into the water. He was again taken out, when an acquaintance took charge of him, and will keep him under surveillance until he is able to go home.

Officers in Trouble.

John Lowe, a resident of the Third ward, made information yesterday, before Alderman McMasters against Thomas McPete and John R. Searight, of the Mayor's police, for forcibly entry. He alleges in the information that the defendants entered his room a few evenings since, at a late hour of the night, by breaking his door open, and that they arrested him without cause, taking him to the lockup, where he remained until next morning, when he was discharged by the Mayor, there being no charge against him. A warrant was issued. There is probably another side to this case, which will perhaps change the features of the affair.

South Side Items.

During a trip to the South side, yesterday, we collected a number of police items, the following of which were before

JUSTICE AMMON.

Elizabeth Peters made information against William Falkner, for surety of the peace. It appears that William is the possessor of a cow, which troubles Mrs Peters by breaking down the garden fence, and that Mrs. Peters in self defence fenced up the cow, a proceeding decidedly offensive to Falkner, who, it is alleged by the prosecutrix, armed himself with a revolver and came after the cow, demanding her immediate release, and threatening to shoot Mrs. Peters unless his demands were complied with. He was arrested and held to Court in the sum of three hundred dollars. The parties reside at Six Mile ferry, Baldwin township.

John Hart made information against an unknown Irishman, charging him with assault and battery, alleging that he struck him, knocking him down, and threatened to kill him. A warrant was issued. The parties reside in Brownstown. He also made information against Valentine Shaffer, charging him with a like offense. It appears that there was a general fight in Brownstown, and that John came out second best in the affair. On a hearing he was discharged after paying the costs.

John Hell was committed to jail yesterday on oath of his wife, on a charge of assault and battery. The wife reconsidered the matter after her lord had been sent over, and applied to the Justice to have him released, which was allowed.

JUSTICE HEISEL.

Phillip Boyle made information against Philip Reinake, charging him with assault and battery. Settled by defendant paying the costs.

Margaret Clemens charged her husband Joseph Clemens with assault and battery. She alleges that he beat and abused her and drove her out of the house, which is in Lower St. Clair township. Warrant issued. She also made information against Balser Clemens, brother of her husband, Joseph Dilenbery and John Freistadt for surety of the peace, alleging that they threw her furniture out of the house and threatened to kick her out. She also informed against the same parties for conspiracy, alleging that they had conspired with her husband to drive her from the house. Warrants in both cases issued.

JUSTICE LIPP,

of Birmingham, furnished the following:

Catharine Franks made information against Martin Peifer, charging him with malicious mischief. Martin had been indulging in frequent potations, and desiring more, entered the saloon of the prosecutor and demanded it, but was refused. He went out of the house, picked up a stone, and threw it in the window. He was arrested and in default of the required bail committed to answer at Court.

John McCormack was committed, on a charge of assault and battery, on oath of Mr. White, a teamster.

The Alleged Bribery in the United States Court.

In the United States Court, for the past three days, Alfred Myers, proprietor of the Sherman House, at Petroleum Center, Venango county, has been on trial, charged with having in his possession and selling counterfeit fractional currency. During the trial, as will have been observed by the full reports of the proceedings in the GAZETTE, the Government adduced evidence tending to show that I. H. Pierce, Esq., of Titusville, one of the counsel for the defense, had tampered with one of the witnesses, named I. S. De Haven, late of Pithole, and latterly, we believe, a resident of Akron, Ohio. De Haven tells the story of his own infamy, and makes Mr. Pierce equally guilty with himself. Mr. Pierce denied the accusation, under oath, in the most positive terms. We need not here repeat the different statements. At first it appeared that De Haven was a Government witness, and that Pierce must have known this fact. This, it is now conceded, is not the case, at least the counsel for the Government did not show that De Haven had been regularly summoned. It seems, however, that he was subject to the manipulations of a "detective," at whose bidding he came to Court. From all that transpired, and we paid close attention, we cannot resist the conclusion that Mr. Pierce has been made a victim—that the case, as developed, to use a police phrase, was "put up" on him.

A. B. Richmond, Esq., of Meadville, and Hon. P. C. Shannon, of this city, made a most earnest and eloquent defense of Mr. Pierce, with whom they were associated as counsel for Myers, and the former gentleman took occasion to congratulate himself on his escape from falling into the trap which he firmly believes was arranged for him by De Haven, the same in which he had ensnared Mr. Pierce. An outline of the remarks of these gentlemen appears elsewhere in to-day's GAZETTE. The case is not yet concluded, Mr. Carnahan, the District Attorney, having but fairly began his argument last evening. His conduct of the trial has been characterized with the utmost fairness, and with that dignity and straightforwardness becoming in an officer of the Government.

Too Much Cream.

Robert Howard, a colored man, proprietor of an eating saloon in the Allegheny market, made information yesterday before Mayor Morrison against Isaac Williams, a colored boy, who has for some time been in his employ, charging him with obtaining goods under fraudulent representations. It appears that Williams has for some days past been playing a sharp game on his employer, by making sundry purchases of cakes, candy, &c., which he had charged to Mr. Howard. Having been successful in a number of these attempts he concluded yesterday to extend his operations, and do business on a larger scale, and accordingly visited Schlelein's confectionery, and ordered fifteen gallons of ice cream. He stated that Mr. Howard had an order for that amount for a pic nic, and had directed him to procure it. Mr. S. declined to deliver the cream until he made inquiry, or received a written order. Mr. Howard was visited, and when informed what Isaac was doing, at once made an information against him as stated above. He was arrested by officer Hess, and after a hearing was committed to the House of Refuge.

Varieties Theatre.

This popular place of resort for the fun loving portion of our citizens, which has been closed for a brief period, undergoing repairs and improvements, will be re-opened this evening. The house has been thoroughly renovated, repainted and papered, and the scenery, under the artistic hand of Mr. Robert Fraser, of Philadelphia, presents an appearance quite different and far superior to what it did. A magnificent drop curtain, representing a view of Lake La Magyol, painted by Mr. Fraser, has been substituted for the old one, and will be quite an improvement. A number of stars in the profession have been engaged for the season, and the entire company has been selected from among the best artists in the country. Such enterprise is sure to be rewarded in Pittsburgh.

Good Templars at Uniontown.

At a meeting of Charity Lodge of Good Templars, held in Odd Fellows Hall, Uniontown, on Monday evening last, the following officers were installed: W. C. T., James C. Whaley; W. V. T., Miss Ellen M. Boggs; W. S., John Ritenour; W. A. S., Mrs. C. Livingston; W. F. S., A. C. Knox; W. T., Miss Sarah Brownfield; W. M., Charles Livingston; W. D. M., Miss Annie King; W. O. G., Leonard Richards; W. I. G., Miss Sadie Collier; W. C., Rev. George Chappell; W. R. H. S., Miss Mamie Litman; W. L. H. S., Mrs. G. Chappell; P. W. C. T., Rev. A. D. Hall. The Committee on Finance consists of Messrs. A. C. Knox, J. Craft and James Sturgeon. The Lodge is in a very flourishing condition, and is doing good work for the cause in Uniontown.

Larceny as Bailee.

J. McClintock made information before Alderman McMasters, yesterday, against F. R. Hutchinson, charging him with larceny as bailee. He alleges that in January Hutchinson borrowed from him a coat and pair of gloves, stating that he was going to a party, and that he would return the articles the next day. He got the coat and gloves but failed to return them. Hutchinson was arrested and gave bail for his appearance at Court to answer the charge.

Hearing in a Counterfeiting case.

J. J. Bolles, arrested on Friday last, for passing counterfeit money in Venango county some time during the past year, had an examination before Commissioner Sproul yesterday, and was discharged—no testimony being produced going to show that he had passed the money, knowing it to be counterfeit, or with a felonious intent. The defendant is the party who testified in the Myers case, on Tuesday, that he had been arrested, in Pithole, and discharged by Esquire Highberger.

Loring's Railway Series.—Baffled Schemes.—Neat paper covers. Price, 75 cents. This is a thoroughly sensational novel of the best order, written with great power and fascination.

The scenes locate in New York City and on the banks of the Hudson.

The leading characters move in the higher walks of life.

A prominent "Detective Officer" figures largely in it, and his "plans" and "exploits" are intensely exciting, as are all revealings of this valuable body of men in every great city. The title is aptly chosen, "Baffled Schemes" fitly applies to all concerned in it.

We can promise every reader a great treat, and anticipate for it great popularity. For sale by Henry Miner.

In the Business.—Sarah McKenna, the girl whose arrest and committal we noticed in yesterday's GAZETTE, on two charges of larceny, appears to have been in the thieving business for some time past. Yesterday morning Mr. Wm. Peters, of McClure township, called at the Mayor's office and lodged another information against her. Sarah, it appears, was employed in Mr. Peters' family, and when she left it is alleged that she carried off a breast-pin belonging to Mrs. Peters, and valued at twenty-five dollars. The pin has been recovered, having been given by the accused to her sister.

On a Bender.—H. Vierheller, of the Broadway Saloon, corner of Fifth and Smithfield streets, had a difficulty with Andrew Bender, an employee in the establishment, and, it is alleged kicked him out of the house. Yesterday Mr. Bender made information, before Alderman McMasters, against him for assault and battery. A warrant was issued. We never knew Mr. Vierheller to be "on a bender" before, but there appears to be no doubt about it, as the man has sworn to it.

Gas Explosion.

Mr. Joseph O'Hanlon, proprietor of the Pilot Saloon, No. 15 Smithfield street, was severely burned last night by an explosion of gas in the cellar. The house in which the explosion occurred had been closed for four or five weeks, during which time the gas had been turned off. The house was reopened yesterday and the gas turned on again, and about five o'clock in the evening Mr. O'Hanlon discovered that gas was escaping, and after examining the pipes above went to the cellar, where the gas was burning, but was unable to find where it was escaping. He then went to the meter, which is situated in the corner of the cellar some distance from the burner, but found that it was so dark he could not see anything, and returned for a candle. After getting the candle he started down the cellar steps inside of the saloon, and had proceeded but a few steps when the explosion took place, burning his face, hair and left hand severely. It is perhaps quite fortunate that he went to the cellar when he did, as a few hours later the gas might have reached the burner, which is situated very low, when the consequences would have been more serious.

Glorious News.—Manchester is rapidly improving. The operation of laying water and gas pipes is going on rapidly, and dwelling and business houses are going up very fast in all parts of the city. All those having houses erected, and wanting hydrants or their houses fitted up with hot and cold water, would do well by calling on N. S. Biddle & Bro., the well-known practical Plumbers and Gas Fitters. While they do their work in a workmanlike manner, their charges are extremely low. Their establishment is on Beaver street between Franklin and Chestnut.

THE SITUATION.

During the rebellion this caption often met the eyes of newspaper readers. It was designed to indicate that kind of intelligence which would answer the ever-recurring question, "How goes the war?"

We may use it now in nearly the same way; for although no armies are meeting in the shock of battle, the country is still tossing upon the turbulent billows which often continue to roll long after the tempest which raised them has spent its force. Political and financial disorders are now the objects of solicitude. The country staggers under a load of debt, national, state and corporate, which seven years ago would have been pronounced unendurable. Yet it is bearing up under it, and prospering. Taxes are enormously high, yet they are paid with commendable cheerfulness, except that which is levied upon whisky. Our cities are growing with increased rapidity, both in population and wealth. Real estate maintains the high price to which it grew during the war, with no immediate prospect of any considerable decline. Commerce is enormous, and luxury indulged in to an extent that has no example in this or any other country. Agriculture is yielding larger returns than in any former period, and hundreds of thousands of new acres are annually brought under tillage. And what is more remarkable than all is, that a thousand immigrants per day are landing upon our shores from the other side of the Atlantic for the purpose of making this heavily taxed and agitated country their own and their children's future home.

It is the estimate of sound economists that every able bodied foreigner who lands upon our shores adds a thousand dollars to the aggregate wealth of the nation, irrespective of whatever money or property he may bring with him. If this be true, the present influx of population from abroad is sufficient to balance the interest upon both our national and state debts, even were all that interest carried out of the country, which it is not by a great deal.

We think it is true that the pressure of the national debt does not much retard the increase of the aggregate wealth of the nation; and that if the national securities were all held at home it would not retard it at all. It is the sending of these securities abroad at a shamefully depreciated price—seeing that they bear six per cent. interest in gold—in exchange for things which we ought to produce at home, that weakens and impoverishes the nation. If we are to have a financial and commercial breakdown, this suicidal policy, and nothing else, will be the cause of it; for so long as it is persisted in gold cannot accumulate, and until it does accumulate, its abnormal price as compared with the national currency, cannot come down. Under the present commercial policy there is no prospect of a return to specie payments. We are not making any perceptible advance in that direction.

The increase of population in cities and towns is out of proportion to that of the rural and agricultural population. This unequal ratio has been going on for years, and has done more to inflate prices of real estate and of the necessaries of life, and consequently of labor, than any other single cause. If the town populations were more generally producers than they are the evil would not be so great; but the number of non-producers, persons who merely stand as middle men, factors or carriers of commodities produced by others, in other words, merchants, traders, speculators and transporters, is out of all proportion to the wants of the country, or what it would need were the several industrial pursuits distributed as they ought to be, and as they soon would be under a judicious and steady system of home protection.

The abundant harvest of the present year will enable the country to descend in some degree, and without danger, from the inflated and feverish condition into which the war of the rebellion threw it; but its good effects will be measurably lost if the strength which it imparts shall be expended in an enlarged foreign commerce, as there is reason to apprehend that it will be. Still its effects will be greatly beneficial to every interest—to the consumer, probably, more than to the producer.

The number of really skilled workmen in this country is disproportionately small. Boys who would gladly acquire skill in many branches of manufacture and handicraft are prevented by arbitrary regulations established by combinations of workmen, and thus thousands who are gifted with natural powers such as would, if cultivated, enrich themselves and render them invaluable to the country, are forced into the ranks of mere laborers and drudges, and subjected during life to be thrown into idleness and want by the caprices of their "skilled" oppressors. This is a sore evil, and one that is beating heavily upon the general prosperity of the nation. Strange anomalies are often found in human society; but there are few stranger than this, that in a country where the laboring man, skilled or unskilled, is the peer of the wealthiest and the highest, a poor man cannot get permission to have his son instructed in a useful, honorable and lucrative calling—not because proprietors or employers are unwilling—but because other poor men combine to forbid it. Evils, when they creep into a community having as much true life as is found in this country, generally cure themselves in time; and so we suppose this one will ultimately cure itself. Slavery dug the pit into which it fell and was buried, and every other form of oppression is sure, sooner or later, to meet a similar fate.

On the whole, the people of the United States, after looking back upon what they have just passed through, and around upon their glorious and advancing country, have reason to thank GOD and take courage. Even the subjugated rebel States are ready to rise to a new and better prosperity as soon as the passions which drove their people into their mad experiment shall have subsided. These passions cannot last always, for they have nothing upon which they can subsist. Their faith in ANDREW JOHNSON and the Northern Democracy is fast changing into contempt; not because the President and their old allies are different from what they were, but because they discover that they have no power.

THE ELECTION OF LOUIS DOWNING, who is said to be a full-blood Indian, over WM. P. ROSS turned upon a question of internal policy. Both northern and southern Cherokees voted for DOWNING, who, it is said, favors the sectionalizing of the public lands of the nation. This is probably intended to be done in order to donate to the railroad which is to run through the territory from north to south—from Kansas to Galveston—alternate sections of a belt twenty miles wide, as is done by the United States Government north and south of the Cherokee territory. There is some probability that the Indians will build and control their own portion of that important road.

IT IS SAID that Mr. Stanton was decidedly opposed to the Tenure of Office Bill at the time of its passage, and voted in favor of its veto. He could not see its wisdom at that time, and indeed many members of both houses thought it inexpedient to insert the section providing against the removal of Cabinet officers. To Mr. Thomas Williams' pertinacity is due in a large measure the passage of the bill, as he clung to it and insisted that it should be made a law till that end was accomplished.

Railroad Companies Held to Account in England.

The London Railway News publishes a summary of the actions arising out of collisions and other accidents brought against railway companies in England during the six months ending June 30, 1867. One case of loss of life appears amongst them, and forty-four cases of minor injuries to passengers.

Three actions were brought against the Metropolitan Company, two against the North London, two against the London and Brighton, one against the London, Chatham and Dover, two against the Great Eastern, two against the Southeastern, one against the Northeastern, six against the Great Western, one against the Southwestern, nine against the Northwestern, three against the Midland, seven against the Lancashire and Yorkshire, two against the Great Northern, and one against the Manchester, South Junction and Altrincham.

In twenty-nine of these cases the railway companies had to pay damages to the amount of £24,825. The highest damages awarded in any one case were in that of the Great Eastern Company, in which a single plaintiff obtained £7,000, on the assumption that he had been irrecoverably injured, a portion of that sum to be paid down, and a portion to be reserved until the sufferer's condition should be finally decided. In Newcastle, a fortnight ago, one Donaldson recovered a verdict of $10,000 for injuries received in a collision on the Blyth and Tyne railway.

The Rainfall in July.

The quantity of rain that fell in July at various places, has attracted attention. At Newark, N. J., the rainfall was 3.75 inches, and the average for twenty-four years, 3.50. The month of July, in nine of these years, has shown a greater fall than this year. At Watertown, Jefferson county, the rainfall for July was 2.32½, and the average for sixteen years, 4.13. At Rochester it was 3.56, and the average for thirty years, 3.23. In this city a record published in the Post gave a rainfall of 6 inches for July. A statement furnished us by the Central Park Commissioners showed a rainfall of 4.66. At Providence, R. I., Mr. Coswell's observations show that the rainfall for July was 3.15 inches, which is very nearly the average (3.18) of this month for a period of thirty-six years. These various observations are curious and interesting. So far they give the credit of the most abundant water to New York.—N. Y. Post.

THE Iron Age gives the following table of the quantity and value of the importations of iron and steel to this country during the first five months of the present year:

	Quantity.	Value.
Pig iron, tons	53,462	$846,134
Bar iron, tons	23,812	1,163,403
Boiler iron, lbs	503,311	21,276
Band hoop and scroll iron, lbs	16,120,746	335,319
Railroad iron, tons	62,577	1,619,990
Sheet iron, lbs	13,071,559	365,277
Anchors, cables and chains, lbs	6,596,870	255,439
Manufactures not specified		1,612,576
Steel, and manufactures of		4,275,805
		$10,495,119

This is a large sum to expend abroad for products that could as well be produced upon our soil. But as the Copperheads, in nearly every State except Pennsylvania, unanimously favor free trade, and as, in the great Democratic stronghold, Kentucky, they are advocating an entire abolition of customs duties, the restoration of their party to power would destroy all the safeguards of the existing tariff, and lead to much heavier importations of foreign iron and steel than are now possible.—Philadelphia Press.

—Mr. Seth Rogers, of Bath, Me., says the Portland Argus, has in his family a pet cat, whose powers of perception are remarkably distinct, from the fact that she became recently in possession of a beautiful kitten, which was earnestly solicited by one of his neighbors when it should be of an age to be removed from its fond parent. One morning after, the kitten was found at the house of the person who desired it, and it was found that "Topsy," the mother, had carried the kitten there of her own accord, and, laying it down, looked up and seemed to say, "here it is; take good care of it," since which time she has never been near it.

—A nervous old gentleman recently attempted to remove a large bug from the bonnet of a lady who sat in front of him at the theatre in New York. The result was, he unroofed all her back hair, the bug's office being to hold head and hair together.

GENERAL NEWS.

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE

Is prepared by the originator of the justly celebrated Coe's Cough Balsam. Mr. Coe has never prepared a medicinal article for public and general use but what has stood the strongest tests, and has always borne the palm of victory over every disease it has been certified to cure. Will you who are suffering from dyspepsia, indigestion, nausea, sick headache, cholera morbus, dysintery and general debility of the whole system, try one single bottle! We will never urge you again if we fail in this case. Our own knowledge of its merits, the united testimony of all who have ever tried it, the encomiums of hundreds of our own neighbors, your duty to yourself and the beneficial result, as certain as sunshine, all urgently, persistently urge you to try just one bottle. If what we say is not correct—if our statements concerning its wonderful virtues are not found to be true—if you do not say that the operation of the medicine is instantaneous and wonderful—we will renounce our profession as caterers to the public health, and retire from the field, admitting that we are incompetent to compound a medicinal preparation which would be entitled to your confidence.

THE POISONS OF THE DAY.

The late temperance investigations in Massachusetts have thrown a flood of light on the horrible abuses practiced in the liquor trade, and have at the same time demonstrated the absolute necessity for unadulterated diffusive stimulants for medicinal purposes. Clergymen of the highest standing, men of the highest rank in science, and philanthropists, who are above the reach of prejudice, have testified not only to the pernicious effects of the adulterated liquors of commerce, but also the efficacy of uncontaminated alcoholic tonics as remedial and restorative agents.

First on the list of this class of preparations, best known and most extensively used of all the stomachics of the day, stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This specific is the only representative of that absolutely pure article which eminent divines, chemists, physicians and social economists in New England have just declared not to be a proper subject for prohibitory legislation. The faculty proclaims by the mouths of its professors that a stimulant of this character is a medical necessity. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS satisfies all the requirements of science. Its alcoholic principle is free from the irritating constituents which analysis detects in even the best imported liquors, and the vegetable extracts with which it is medicated are among the best antidotes and restoratives that botanical science, in its world-wide research, has yet discovered. It is an indubitable fact that some constitutions and habits of body demand stimulation, and for all such a stimulant which combines anti bilious and slightly aperient properties with its tonic virtues is manifestly desirable.

CURE OF FISTULA.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases, which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which I had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies an vigor of restored health.

Yours, gratefully, J— C—.

Dr. Keyser's consultation rooms are No. 120 Penn street, from 9 A. M. until 4 p. m.

The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 8th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours, W. & A. J. PACKARD. je27:a76

IN THE COUNTRY.

The Season at Fayette Springs—Points of Interest—Delightful Drives—Exploration of Wonderful Caverns, &c., &c.

[Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SNYDER'S SUMMIT HOTEL,
Fayette County, Pa.

It might with some degree of propriety and good sense be urged against the Connellsville Railroad extension project that its terminus is just where it should be, as it could not end in a more delightful spot on God's green foot-stool than Uniontown. It is the most picturesque and enticing little town on the maps, and its people have made hospitality a lifetime study, a conclusion which must be arrived at by the traveler, in search of pleasure. Its hotels are admirably managed; its places of recreation and enjoyment are conducted in the best style; its public buildings are worthy of sight; and its churches are most inviting to the stranger. But with all our praise of the beautiful little town, we can still go further—even to the summit—not the highest point in praise, but to the altitude on the Laurel Hill range of the old Allegheny mountains, where our friend Snyder keeps the model place of summer resort. Here, from Uniontown, after a comfortable drive of six miles, which hardly has its superior at any other place on the National road, we are lodged and enjoying the cool mountain breeze and delightful scenery, with as much grace and dignity as though we knew business at home went on smoothly in our absence. This pleasure haunt is picturesque to an extreme. Beautiful virgin white cottages, for the accommodation of guests, stud the velvet green fields and are lost in the profusion of shrubbery, flowers and foliage which surround them, while the lodge house, at the roadside, hangs out the sign of hospitality and welcome to all who come. And such hospitality! Every want is known, every luxury afforded, and every imaginable accommodation, for the comfort and convenience of the guests, is studied by the attentive host, and his accomplished daughter and son. The latter is the life and soul of the place. John knows every rock, every crag, every brook, every path, road and point of interest within a radius of twenty miles of the hotel, and under his guidance and direction, the guest, in quest of pleasure, must certainly enjoy himself. Stephen Snyder's Summit House is the place for rational enjoyment, rich boarding and clever accommodations, and those contemplating summer trips must not fail to give its attractions fair consideration.

THE SEASON.

Every train arriving at Uniontown brings many excursionists from various parts of the State, seeking summer enjoyment and recreation among the woods and wilds of the mountains. The greater number of visitors push their way towards Cumberland and take quarters at some of the first class places of resort, which at intervals line the road. The hotels in Uniontown drive a lively business, and are generally thronged to their utmost capacity. Their rates are quite reasonable, only ten dollars per week being charged to regular boarders, and two dollars per day to transient folks. These rates prevail also at the resorts and springs in the neighborhood.

The attractions here are vastly superior to those at more pretentious places of summer resort, the scenery being magnificent, while the restraints put on at extremely fashionable places are entirely ignored. Everybody enjoys himself as best he may, and is not expected to walk on stilts, dress for every meal, keep his coat on at all hours, and to talk small talk at talking time. Running, jumping, riding, swinging, singing, dancing, or any thing else is in order at all times, and the guest must enjoy himself, else there is no enjoyment in him.

THE DRIVES.

The drives are splendid. The Cumberland road or National Pike which leads from Washington, D. C., to Indianapolis, and is one of Uncle Sam's important highways, is in the best of order and affords excellent drives. It is solid and smooth, and not a hole or break occurs in any part of it, as the State government keeps workmen constantly engaged in repairing and keeping it in order. This road in both directions leads to places of interest and is daily traveled by excursion parties. Braddock's grave is one of the objects of interest. The reader of history will remember that the defeated commander was buried in the centre of the road, some ten miles from Uniontown, in order to preserve the remains of the gallant but incautious leader from the outrages of the Indians. As the knowledge of the location of the exact spot was locked in the bosom of the "oldest inhabitant," who died many years ago, the grave was pointed out as being somewhere in the immediate vicinity, by a conspicuous finger board. There are other drives which are quite popular with the visitors to the mountain. A good road leads to Jumonville's grave, to Washington Springs and Dunbar's Camp. The latter is on the knob of a very high mountain, from which, on a clear day, as fine a panoramic view of fields, hills, plains and meadows, mountains and woods, may be obtained as anywhere else in America. The eye can look into Ohio, can see the cloud of smoke over Pittsburgh, and mark places many miles away. There is but one fault with the landscape—it lacks a stream of water to make it one of the finest in the world. There are rivers within the broad expanse over which the eye ranges, but they are hid from view by high banks and thick foliage. The visitor to Uniontown should not fail to visit this point, as it was sanctified by the presence of Washington, and was the spot where his Commander in Chief, the impetuous Braddock, yielded up his spirit to God. One hundred and twelve years have elapsed since then, but the spot is still pointed out with reverence to the visitor. A few miles below is the Washington Spring, a gushing fountain of water, where the tired and jaded troops rested and refreshed themselves on the retreat. Washington drank of this water, but our party did better, for we partook in the neat house erected over it of a glass of fresh buttermilk, the kind gift of Mrs. Rush, whose residence is within a few feet of the spring. To capitalists this site would prove a magnificent one for a summer resort, on a large scale. It is romantically situated and in the very center of a number of interesting places and points.

There are other points of interest in the neighborhood, some of which we have not yet visited. The Ohio Pile Falls, some fifteen miles from Uniontown, are said to even rival the Niagara in point of beauty, while Pine Knob surpasses Camp Dunbar in the extent and magnificence of the view afforded from its crest. But the principal attraction hereabouts are the "De Lany Caves," and as we visited these great natural curiosities we shall endeavor to describe them, although at the outset fully acknowledging that we are unable to portray to the reader the grandeur and beauty of their subterranean passages. Everybody has christened these places as

THE GREAT CAVES OF THE ALLEGHENIES.

Expressing a desire to visit the curiosities after hearing their beauties and oddities enthusiastically discussed on Monday morning by several gentlemen who had been through them, a party was at once made up for the excursion. It consisted of Messrs. J. R. Cunningham, of the Peoples' Line of Steamboats, Brownsville; John P. Logan, of F. H. Eaton's, Pittsburgh; John Snyder, clerk of the Summit House; M. McCann, Adams Express Company, Pittsburgh; and Mr. Lingo, artist of Uniontown, and your correspondent. The party was no sooner formed than horses were ordered, lamps and cord and matches procured, and a preparation of Jamaica ginger to promote the circulation of the blood, while in the depths of the cave, was put up in an anti-temperance looking bottle. Ere many moments had elapsed six prancing steeds, the best our rural retreat afforded, were brought up to the door saddled, bridled, and ready for departure. The guests hearing of the party about to leave for an exploration of the dangerous caves, crowded about the gateway and bade us good bye with as much solemnity as though we were all about to ride, a la Joe Brown, to our place of final and permanent sepulture. Without any delay we were off, and our horses could not resist the temptation of galloping as swift as they could put down their feet over a road as smooth and even as any could desire. The ride was delightful. We wound our way through the wildest part of the mountain, and were shaded by the bright green foliage, rendered brilliant and golden by the straggling rays of the warm August sun, which wickedly shown over our heads. A few miles were traversed, when we took a side path into the thickest of the woods, and Indian fashion, in single file, permitted our horses to pick their way down rough rocks, over ragged knolls, through bramble and fallen trees, till we halted at the mouth of

THE CAVERNS.

Here we dismounted, tied our chargers to slender saplings, and buttoning our coats close about our bodies to provide against the sudden change of atmosphere which our guide, Mr. John Snyder, assured us we should experience in the cavern, were prepared for the exploration. Although the thermometer ranged among the nineties in the sun, we experienced a sense of chilliness as we approached within a few feet of the opening of the cave. A draft of cold air not dissimilar to the keen breath of March poured out of its mouth and fairly whistled about our ears, making us shrug our shoulders and draw our coats still closer about our bodies. The entrance to the main hall or apartments of the caves is through a narrow contracted opening some four feet wide by three in height. It is closely lined with ragged rocks and the floor, which is of slippery stone, descends a steep grade to a depth of some fifteen feet in a distance of thirty. With lighted candles, one in the possession of each person, we entered, and, crouched on hunkers, reached the first landing. Here we found a broad, well-proportioned and not uncomfortable apartment, with ceilings arched, walls of fantastically shaped stones, and floor rough with huge fragments of rocks heaped indiscriminately on the top of each other, forming a walking place over which progress was extremely difficult. We christened this place a porter's lodge, but it would be a terrible place to lodge porters. On we traveled through a very narrow passage formed by a large rock, seemingly cleft in twain, till we reached another commodious chamber of more elegant appearance than the one we had just left. The walls here were comparatively even and smooth, and the ceilings arched perfectly, presenting a beautiful appearance. The floor, however, was rough, and we had to guard our footsteps carefully lest we might suffer by falling into some of the various fissures over which we picked our way. Pushing onward and downward, for the floor of the cave has a gradual descent from the opening to the farthest point yet explored, we met what we termed the rotunda. This is a room almost circular in form, with irregularly arched ceilings and comparatively smooth floor. Its sides were literally covered with the names of parties who had explored that far, some of which dated back three score and ten years. The atmosphere here was exceedingly cold and set our teeth chattering. We examined this place very carefully, to discover if any living animal had ever inhabited it, but could find no trace of life whatever, save the registered names of explorers, left on the ceilings and walls. Passing on through a wide hall we reached the the entrance of the "Devil's Abode," which is a narrow passage through which we had to crawl on our hands and knees. The "Devil's Abode" is a square room, at least nearly square, in which the rocks are thrown in all sorts of confusion. The ceiling is low, the walls ragged and rough, and in many places indented with grottos and niches. A tall rock, nearly reaching the ceiling, gives rise to the name of the apartment. By placing a candle at its base, on either side a grotesque shadow, much resembling the generally recognized appearance of old Nick, with trident on his shoulders, is cast upon the side wall. In that place, so awfully dull, quiet, mournful and solitary, such a spectre dancing on the wall to the motions of the candle is not suggestive of very pleasant thoughts. This apartment is about one-half mile distant from the place we entered, and bears comparatively few names of parties who have left their marks on the walls. Here we put out all the lights to determine how dark the cavern might be. We could not see an inch before us; all was deep, deep darkness, and we can imagine no place more solitary. Here and there through the chamber we could hear the dull monotonous dropping of water, mingled with our own breathing. The darkness was painful, and within a few moments we re-lighted our candles and pushed forward, determined to explore the cave so far as man had explored. Following the hall which passed through several very large apartments not much different from those we had first entered, our progress was checked by what appeared an impassable barrier to further progress. Our guide declared that through this persons had passed, and marvelled that we hesitated. He laid down flat on his back and forced himself through, while the remainder of the party cautiously followed, thinking, perhaps, that every moment they might get wedged into a position from which it would have been difficult to extricate themselves. At the base of this inclined plane we found a small stream of limpid water, as cold as the coldest ice water and as pure as a child's conscience. The hall through which this flowed contained only a few names on the wall, which went to show that but few persons had ever invaded its sanctity. The stone of this apartment was sandy and soft, while that in the other passages was hard limestone, which stoutly resisted the chisel. Again moving forward, sometimes crawling, then walking upright, then rolling, we tired of the exploration, having traveled nearly two miles in the cavern and descended to a great depth in the mountain. Retracing our footsteps, we took a side hall which connected with the cave in which we had entered, and wound our way through a number of magnificent chambers, or rooms in another cavern, the floor, walls and ceilings of which were soft, crumbling sandstone, which broke easily by touch. With considerable difficulty we managed to reach day light once more at the bottom of a pit, some ten feet deep, up which we clambered and found ourselves within twenty yards of the place we had entered. Luckily for us that we had come back the other route, for we were horrified by discovering dense volumes of smoke issuing from the entrance we had first gone into, and by which we had calculated to return. Some one of us in lighting our candle in entering the cave had thrown down a burning match, and the fire communicated with the dry leaves which for years and years had accumulated in the mouth of the cavern, and extended into it some twenty feet, being moulded almost into a solid mass. The heavy draft of air out of the cavern fanned the flames, and as we departed quite a nice little fire was raging. Had that been the only mode of egress we all might have perished before assistance could have arrived, as escape through the dense smoke and hot flames would have been impossible. We thanked heaven that we had safe deliverance from the cave, and although we enjoyed the exploration hugely, it was a foolhardy undertaking. A rock falling would forever close the visitor from daylight. The rocks are in many places loose, and, as we found, large masses can be drawn down by the slightest exertion. Should a single rock fall in some of the passage ways, no power on earth could save parties closed in the cave before human endurance would fail and life depart. We had explored the caverns in just three hours and ten minutes, and presume were as far in their depths as mortal ever passed. The end of the main cavern has never been reached and probably ramifies for miles and miles down into the bowels of the mountainous earth. We returned to our hotel in good season for tea and narrated our experience to eager listeners.

GUESTS HERE.

Among the guests here we notice David Veech, Esq., lady and children, Mr. J. L. Moorhouse, agent at Pittsburgh of the Peoples' Line of Steamboats; Mr. Barr, of Rochester, Pa., and many other familiar faces.

—From a report read before a meeting of the creditors of the Unadilla Bank, it seems that the enterprising bankers connected with that concern have managed to become indebted to the public to the amount of $385,241, with assets, valued by themselves, at $46,807. Besides the assets to the amount named, they offer as further security some pumped-out petroleum land in Pennsylvania, and some silver mining territory located in Nevada. On the whole, after balance is made, it is probable after noteholders are paid, that the creditors will get at least one cent in the dollar. The plan of the operators in Unadilla was to borrow money as long as the farmers of the neighborhood would lend it, and when the sponge was squeezed dry, to "fail."

—The New York Times, of Tuesday, says: In the gold room the revamped story of irregularities in the Treasury Printing Bureau was used to strengthen gold and to attempt, by indirection, to damage the public funds. This story was also used on Saturday last, and to impart to it plausibility—truth is a stranger to the whole affair—one of the sensational morning papers was prompted to give it importance, editorially, making the extraordinary point that the amount of wrong doing is so very great that every commission to investigate and confirm the accounts of the Treasury and its Printing Bureau can be and thus far has been "bribed" to suppress the facts. Of course there is no logical way of answering this sort of most illogical and absurd argument, but the sensational editorial was improved upon on the street. A petition, it was asserted, of no less than five New York Bank Presidents had been sent to the President of the United States, charging these irregularities and demanding their investigation, and even the name of one of these Bank parlor magnates was mentioned in proof that something wonderful is about to be developed. It happens that this name is identical with the reported successor of Mr. McCulloch as Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Moses Taylor, the very respectable President of the City Bank, who is quietly administering safely, and we believe profitably, a million of capital, is said on the street to be one of the five financiers who impeach the Secretary of the Treasury of high crimes and misdemeanors in his Printing Bureau. And Mr. Moses Taylor is named by our sensational neighbor as the probable successor of Mr. McCulloch in the Treasury! Such is the staple of to-day's rumors in the gold room. We, presume, the credit of the public funds and the fair name of Mr. McCulloch for integrity will outlive the assault, as they have done several attacks of the same sort in times past. But we protest against this wicked use of the name of a modest merchant and in point of qualifications for the Cabinet, an exceedingly moderate gentleman, to back up the reckless speculations of the gold room. When the Printing Bureau is really found in default, and the President of the United States, in consequence, has suspended Mr. McCulloch as Secretary of the Treasury, it will be time enough to look round the whole country for a successor to the latter, and if the name of Mr. Taylor, among others supposed to be qualified, should be suggested, his friends will doubtless appreciate the compliment. As the case now stands the use of his name is simply a mockery.

Late in the day it was intimated that the speculators in the gold room had fixed their authority and reliance for the rumored Printing Bureau irregularities upon some one formerly connected with a private Bank Note printing concern in this city, who is to point out, in a publication soon to appear, how fraud and over issues might occur in the Bureau! The public funds, after this intimation, were on the advance, and gold 140⅝ per cent.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette,
Wednesday, August 14, 1867.

CRUDE—The transactions in crude were again fair to-day, reaching about thirteen thousand barrels, but, notwithstanding the market was more active, prices remain unchanged. One party sold ten thousand barrels for the last four months, to be delivered at specified periods, at 11½c. which is above the market; but as an offset to this the same party bought seven thousand barrels of refined from the party who bought the crude at 33½c, which also is to be delivered at specified periods during the last four months. We give this explanation in order to show that there was a "wheel within a wheel," in the transaction, and while the operation was perfectly legitimate, the prices in both cases were above the market. The sales reported were as follows:

1000 bbls	first water	10¾
200 "	spot—Smith's Ferry, bbls ret'ned	9½
200 "	Oil Creek—bbls returned	10
750 "	" " " "	10
5000 "	September to January	11¼
5000 "	September to December	11½

REFINED—The transactions in bonded oil were unusually large to-day, reaching fourteen thousand five hundred barrels in the aggregate, but the only change in prices that we can discern is for the last four months, which brought an advance of one half a cent per gallon compared with yesterday. There were no sales of spot oil—September remains the same as on Tuesday, 30½c, with a little stronger feeling. The sales below noted at 33½, we have already explained above:

600 bbls	for September	30½
1000 "	" "	30½
500 "	" "	30½
500 "	" "	30
1000 "	for October	31
3000 "	for Sept., buyer	33½
1000 "	for October, buyer	33¾
2000 "	for Oct., Nov. and Dec	33½
2000 "	last four months	31½

"SELLING SHORT."

The subject of "selling short" is now receiving considerable attention in Chicago, and an effort is being made to cry it down. That a man has a right to "sell short," so long as the interests of others are not involved, no one will deny; but that he has a right to go into an operation of this kind, knowing that disaster on his part will bring ruin upon others, is not so clear. There has been considerable of this "species of gambling" indulged in in the oil business during the last few months, and we hear it intimated that quite a number of "short" operators, both here and in the east, have been pretty badly crippled, and the end is not yet. In the majority of instances, the motto of these operators is, "heads I win; tails, you lose."

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette,
Wednesday, August 14, 1867.

The general markets are quiet and rather dull, though for some articles there is an improved demand at stiffening prices; but this is the exception and not the general rule. There seems to be fair volume of business in the aggregate, but it is made up almost entirely of small operations, as both dealers and consumers are keeping down supplies in anticipation of a much lower scale of prices, and that these anticipations will be fully realized, scarcely admits of a doubt.

GRAIN—Wheat is not coming in very freely though the demand is not overly active; we continue to quote prime Penna. and Ohio Red at $2,10@2,15. Oats coming in more freely; sale of 200 bush new at 60c; and small sales new in store at 65@70c, and old at 73@75. Corn may be quoted at $1 for mixed, and $1,03@1,05 for prime Yellow. Rye is dull and nominal at $1,10@1,15 for new and old. New Spring Barley would sell at 90c, and possibly $1 might be realized; the season has not yet fairly opened, and so far as we can learn, there have been no transactions.

FLOUR—The market is steady and moderately active, and, as yet, prices are pretty well maintained. We continue to quote at $11,00@11,50 for choice old Spring and new Winter Wheat; and $14@15 for fancy brands. We heard of an offer to sell 200 bbls choice Chicago Extra, to be delivered there in September, at the option of the seller, at $8,25. Rye Flour is still quoted at $8,25 for old.

PROVISIONS—There is a continued fair jobbing demand for Bacon, and we have regular jobbing sales at 12¼@12½c for Shoulders; 14½@15½c for Ribbed and Clear Sides, and 21@21½c for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard is quiet but steady at 13@13½c for prime kettle rendered, in tierces, and 14c, in kegs. Mess Pork is quoted at $24@24,50, and demand light. Dried Beef, 24@26c.

BUTTER—Prime fresh pail and firkin Butter continues scarce and in good demand, while common packed is dull, and hard to sell at any price. Small sales of the former at 20@22c.

EGGS—Continue depressingly (to holders) dull, and prices are still tending downward. To-day, 15 cents seemed to be regarded as the nominal price.

POTATOES—Continue dull but unchanged—arrivals by rail falling off considerable. We continue to quote at $1,50@2 per bbl, according to quality.

GREEN APPLES—Continue to come in slowly, and with a continued good demand, the market is steady, and prices are well maintained, ranging from $5,00@6,50 per bbl, for fair to prime.

HAY—Is selling at scales at $15@18 for fair to good, and $19@20 for choice Timothy.

OIL—Lard Oil is still quoted at 85c for No. 2, and $1,05 for No. 1.

PITTSBURGH WOOL MARETK.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette,
Wednesday, August 14, 1866.

We have no change to note since our last report, and no improvement in prices, as yet. We do not hear of any new orders in the country districts, and but few buyers. Farmers being through with their harvesting are now anxious to dispose of their Wool, as the prices seem to be sufficiently established, and no immediate prospect of any advance in prices. Manufacturers this season do not come to the country to purchase Wool, since they can buy just what they want in the eastern markets at relatively lower prices than in the country. We quote coarse fleece and tub washed wool at 37@40c; medium, 42@44c; fine wool, 45@48c, and choice clips, 50c.

RIVER NEWS.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT — NOBLE'S "STEAM CHANNELER."—Col. W. H. Nobles, of St. Paul, Minn., has had on exhibition in this city, since last Friday, at Rees' engine works, the model of a dredge boat, or, as he styles it, a "Steam Channeler," designed to deepen the channels of our rivers, and remove all ordinary obstructions to navigation, during the season of low water. The model, so far as we can judge from its workings, demonstrates that Col. Nobles has applied a new principle to the work of dredging out channels, and one that will prove of incalculable benefit to our people, should the practical test, soon to be made, come up to the expectations of the inventor. We may state that many of our leading steamboatmen and business men, who witnessed the workings of the model at Mr. Rees' establishment, express the utmost confidence in the perfect success of the "Channeler." The principle on which it does its work is very simple. At the exhibition of the model on Tuesday morning, Mr. Milnor Roberts, in charge of the Ohio river improvements, General Moorhead, and other practical and scientific gentlemen were present, and seemed highly interested in its workings. They entertain, no doubt, of its adaptability to the work for which it is designed—to accomplish—but a practical test will settle the matter beyond dispute.

Col. Nobles claims that by his "Channeler" he can give us reliable navigation on the Ohio river during the season of low water, for boats drawing from four to six feet water. His dredge is merely a system of ploughs attached to a large iron drum, at the stern of the boat. The plows threw the dirt outward from the middle of the boat, right and left, beyond the sides of the boat. It is claimed that not only mud and sand, but even heavy stones of a ton weight, can be removed outward from the channel in the same way.

Colonel Nobles left yesterday for his home at St. Paul, but will return in a couple of weeks, when it is expected arrangements will be made to give his machine a practical test, by the construction of a dredge boat, according to his plans. The success of the improvement he proposes will inaugurate a new era of river business, during the season of low water, and will be of the utmost advantage to the commerce and trade of Pittsburgh.

Major Thomas Cornell, of Roundout, now member of Congress from the Thirteenth New York District, is said to be the largest individual steamboat owner in the United States. He owns altogether nineteen steamboats and propellers, and his wealth is variously estimated at from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000.

Williams & Co., of Vicksburg, offered a barrel of pork, one of flour, one of meal, and a free passage to St. Louis and return, to the party bringing into that city the first lot of shelled corn of this year's growth. The prizes were taken by a citizen living near Vicksburg, who came in a few days ago with, we learn, some three hundred bushels of the new crop. He, with a lot of the corn, passed up on Thursday on the Rubicon for St. Louis.

The following items are from the Memphis Bulletin, of Saturday: Captain DeHaven left for New Orleans yesterday morning in response to a telegram. His grand steamboat enterprise is meeting with the most favorable consideration here, and its speedy accomplishment is regarded as a certainty. Capt. Flem Calvert, Superintendent of the Memphis & St. Louis Packet Company, has been appointed agent in this city for the Diamond Cotton Line, in place of Col. Isaac Paist, lately deceased.

The Cincinnati Gazette has the following in regard to the rumors of the cholera having broke out on the steamer Leonidas, on her recent up trip from New Orleans:

It having been extensively telegraphed that deaths from cholera had occurred on board the Leonidas on her last up trip, we yesterday took occasion to ascertain the source of the report. Her officers make the following statement of the health, condition and mortality on board the boat from the time of their departure about thirty days ago, up to their arrival here Sunday: Two deaths occurred on board during the down trip, and one up—all colored deck hands. The first was that of George Washington, just below Memphis, who was buried a short distance below Napoleon. He lived at Nashville. The second was Charles Bates, of Cincinnati, who died above Red river, and was buried at the mouth of Red river. These were all the deaths that occurred before reaching New Orleans, and no other sickness reported. The officers of the boat declare that neither of these cases were cholera, as they were accompanied by no diarrhea. The men had been working hard in the hot sun, and had partaken freely of ice water, which caused their death. On the up trip there was one death—that of John Fuller, who resided either at Wheeling or Parkersburg. He was sick several days before leaving New Orleans, and died a short distance above Natchez, and was buried a few hours after. Six passengers came aboard the boat in a sick condition, but became well while aboard, and before reaching their destination. At Cairo a steamboat runner was holding a number of passengers in waiting for the steamer Mayflower, which was detained. The Leonidas coming up, these passengers secured rooms on board of her. A bad feeling was thus engendered between the runner and the officers of the boat, which resulted in the former declaring he would report the cholera and yellow fever as existing aboard the Leonidas. Again, at Shawneetown bar, while the Leonidas was aground, a passenger, undertaking to interfere in the management of the boat, became involved in a controversy with Capt. Greenlee. The Mayflower coming along at this time, the passengers got aboard of her and came up ahead of the Leonidas. He had declared upon leaving the latter boat that he would spend $2500 to run the Leonidas out of the trade. The officers state that this man afterward reported sixteen deaths from cholera aboard the boat. Notwithstanding these damaging reports, the Leonidas had a large number of passengers all the way up, the greater proportion of them ladies. These passengers give the officers credit for every attention that could be bestowed on them, and regret the evil reports sent out ahead of them all the way up from Cairo. Mr. S. B. Fisher, the bar-keeper on board the boat, became a general favorite with all because of his obliging disposition.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Tuesday, says: Business fair. The rates of last week to New Orleans were adopted for this week, at the boatmen's meeting yesterday. Competition continues to all points, but the courteous manner in which it is carried on redounds to the honor of the contestants, although business in the Vicksburg trade has dropped off considerably. The packet Rubicon is loading, with a prospect of a fair trip. Lady Gay, Commonwealth, and barge line are loading for New Orleans, and receiving encouraging supplies. The Ida is loading for the Ohio, while the Nightingale and New York have laid up. It is believed there is a large amount of freight here for the Ohio.

A PRO RATA DISTRIBUTION OF PROFITS TO TICKET-HOLDERS!

Capital, - - $1,287,148.

TICKETS, ONE DOLLAR EACH,

And limited to One Million Two Hundred and Eighty-seven Thousand One Hundred & Forty-eight.

The Fairest and Most Impartial Plan of Presentation yet Offered to the Public.

A PRIZE WITH EVERY TICKET.

PROSPECTUS.

A number of the leading Bankers and Merchants of New York, in consideration of the great success which has attended many of the Charitable Presentation Entertainments of the day, have organized themselves into a company with the view of inaugurating an enterprise which, while it shall return them a fair profit, shall offer greater advantages to ticket-purchasers than any yet presented; and which, being conducted upon a perfectly legitimate and business basis, shall be free from those objectionable features which have characterized many of these enterprises.

To this end they have consigned the sale of tickets, and the registering of the same, to CLARK, WEBSTER & CO., Bankers and Managers, No. 62 Broadway, New York, who will keep the records in their custody until the day of the Grand Presentation Entertainment, when they will be handed over to a committee selected by the audience to make an impartial distribution of prizes.

A reference to the number of prizes and the general plan of distribution, given below, will convince even the most skeptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the Commercial and Financial standing of the Company, and the Managers and Bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guaranty of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with the scheme will be conducted, and that the interests of ticket holders will be most strictly watched over and guarded. In fact, it is the desire of the Managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of whoever shall purchase a ticket, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree diminish the profits which are likely to accrue to all who invest.
